CAREGIVING: STRESSES AND SUPPORT

I am working on a research project about parents taking care of sick relatives. We know that this is something one of your parents did last year. We would like to ask you some questions about you and about how you felt during that time. Your parent(s) said it would be okay. Some of our questions might make you remember challenging times for you or your family. It is okay for you not to answer some of the questions or to say that you don't want to answer any more questions. Are you willing to talk to me?
