The Thompson Center for Learning & Teaching
Presents an interactive workshop for faculty, staff, and students

Got Privilege? Got Power.

Tuesday, November 17, 2015
3:00-4:30 pm
Happenings Room, UCEN

Power and privilege go hand in hand. One can hardly exist without the other. In order to address systems of oppression, one must first understand and acknowledge how privilege allows us to exercise power at the expense of others.

This workshop will illustrate the often unrecognized privileges that unknowingly lend to our participation in the dominant position over others.

Crystal Flynn is a diversity trainer who focuses on working with individuals and organizations to create and enhance environments that embrace social justice for all by valuing diversity, educating and empowering leaders and promoting inclusion and respect.

She has completed training in undoing racism with the People’s Institute for Survival and Beyond, intergroup dialogue at the University of Michigan and diversity facilitator training through the National Multi-Cultural Institute’s Train-the-Trainer Workshop.

She is a graduate of the University of Michigan-Flint and currently serves as an Executive Assistant in the Office of the Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs at the University of Michigan.

I AM UM-FLINT: IDENTITY QUILT

Faculty, staff, and students are invited to put creative energies in action and design a quilt square that showcases their personal identity. No sewing required. Materials and refreshments provided, Tuesday, November 17, 4:30-6:00 pm, 134 Thompson Library. Quilt squares will be assembled to create an Identity Quilt that showcases the many faces of UM-Flint. RSVP to tclt-email@umflint.edu.

Opportunities to create a quilt square will also be provided during the winter semester; watch your email for details.
