Neighborhood assets are the people, groups, programs and resources that serve as a source of strength in the neighborhood. Neighborhood capacity is residents’ ability to participate in actions related to community interests, as individuals or in their networks and organizations. BNCP strengthens residents and neighborhood groups so they can better assume leading roles and take action to improve their neighborhood.