GENEALOGY

v. Lucy Anna Crapo, born Nov. 8, 1836, died 1920 Boston, Mass., buried Glenwood Cemetery; married, Dec. 15, 1858 (Flint, Mich.), Humphrey Henry Howland Crapo Smith. 2 children.

Robert Kenneth Horner, div.; married (2), June 30, 1932, Jay Claude Thompson. Child by Horner:

i. Jack Willson Thompson, born Mar. 2, 1918; married, June 10, 1944, Alice Virginia Hoover. 2 children.

ix. Emma Eliza Chase Crapo, born June 1, 1845, died April 11, 1897 Detroit, Mich.; married, Nov. 29, 1866 (Flint, Mich.), Harlan Page Cristy. 3 children.

This collection consists primarily of letters, photographs, and memorabilia. Most of it was collected by Frances Spencer (Willson) Thompson, of Chicago and Flint, a great-granddaughter of Henry Howland Crapo, but some items were also contributed by descendants of Crapo's son William Wallace. The material thus mainly concerns James C. Willson and his family.

Several items are of interest to students of Flint and Genesee County history. The most significant item is the Willson scrapbook, which contains newspaper clippings, drawings, and ephemera, such as programs, handbills, and invitations. George C. Willson seems to have pasted, around 1915, various items, mostly undated, which he had saved. They concern his relatives, including Henry H. Crapo and especially his father, and deal with such activities as the senior Willson's involvement in Flint politics and the Institution for the Deaf and Dumb, his lectures, recitals of the Flint Conservatory of Music and plays performed by the Shakespeare Club, visits by relatives, and weddings. The passing certificates from Walker School given to George Crapo Willson, dating from 1884 and 1885, are noteworthy. There is material on Crapo Farm (originally called "Grassmoor"), in Gaines Township, Genesee County, which until 1955 raised pedigreed Hereford cattle. The photocopied letters from Emma E. (Crapo) Cristy to her son J. Crapo Cristy, then a student at Yale, describe her interest in spiritualism and her admonitions about his behavior. Genealogical material on the Crapo forebears can be found in the photocopied scrapbook of Mary Florence (Orrell) Willett, which contains a large number of clippings concerning family members, and in the genealogy written by Lucy (Crapo) Smith. Finally, the collection contains two legal agreements between Henry H. Crapo and James Arnold, from 1854 and 1855, which relate to Crapo's purchase of pine lands in Michigan—-the source of his fortune—-and a memorandum written by William W. Crapo in 1909 describing the disposition of his inheritance.

Photographs include several of the Crapo home and gardens, now in Willson Park in Flint. Especially noteworthy is the full-plate daguerreotype of Henry H. and Mary Ann (Slocum) Crapo and their children, taken about 1852. William W. Crapo and his family are well represented by photographs, including two of his house in New Bedford. Other photographs include snapshots taken at Salters Point, Massachusetts. There are portraits of Governor Crapo, James C. and Rhoda (Crapo) Willson, William C. Durant, and George C. Willson, his wife Frances, and daughter Frances. A number of photographs document the last thirty years of Crapo Farm.

Not listed here are the artifacts in the Crapo Room in the Library of the University of Michigan-Flint, for which a separate list is available. The Michigan Historical Collections, Bentley Historical Library, University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, house most of the papers of Henry Howland Crapo and William Wallace Crapo, as well as the diaries of James C. Willson. Microfilm of most of the Crapo papers will shortly be available for inspection here.
