How do you recognize a healthy ecosystem? Who defines the desirable features of a healthy ecosystem? Most would agree that biodiversity is important for ecosystem health. In the same way, diversity is important to our campus (eco)system. What are the current strategies to promote diversity on campus? Do we have an organizational culture of inclusion? What is it? Is it where we think it should be? We will explore these questions and discuss our roles in an organizational culture that encourages and supports diversity and inclusion.

Co-sponsored by Thompson Center for Learning & Teaching, Counseling, Accessibility & Psychological Services, Ellen Bommarito LGBT Center, Intercultural Center, International Center, Student Government, Student Involvement & Leadership, & Student Success Center.